CHILD 1 - James LAWSON
James arrived in Australia in 1852 on the ship "David McIver". He went to the Bendigo goldfields which were then being opened, James mined there for 3 years, from there went to Taradale where he worked for 3 years also. He was successful in both places and made a considerable sum of money. He then revisited his native country, where he remained for a few years. During his visit to Ireland he got married to Ellen Foley and in 1860 returned on the "Champion of the seas" to the land of his adoption and settled near Macedon, where he remained engaged in farming persuits up till his death. In 1886 he owned a house and 268 acres at Mt Alexander Road Bullenongork Riding Gisborne. He was of a quiet and retiring disposition and never took an active part in public affairs, but the integrity of his character was recognised by all who knew him. Adevouit catholic he use to read "The Catholic Advocate" and would say "this is the paper that gives the Protestants the divil".

CHILD 8 - James Francis LAWSON

In the words of Frank Lawson "Mick"

"Our mother, Alice Gamble, became a catholic when she married our father, James Lawson. I often wonder about the wedding - who organised it, who was there, etc. In my whole life I can never remember my father or indeed my mother organizing a social occasion. Our parents settled on a property next to my father's parents family at Macedon. Each property was about 150 acres. My father cleared the timber from the bush, built a house and commenced mixed farming (sheep, cows, pigs, milk, apples, firewood, oats). For economic reasons he had to do share farming with a wealthy property owner next door. He also cut telephone and electricity poles from Baringo at the foot of Mt Macedon. We were poor in everything but food of which, as we were ona farm, there was an abundance. (Pure cream on our Weeties.) We did not have a motor vehicle until 1932, a REO truck. My father gave the policeman a load of wood for a licence without a driving test."
